Thackeray as a Showman.

The "Monthly Gossip," in the June number of Lippincott's Magazine, contains this good story about Thackeray:

Years ago, when Thackeray was delivering his lectures on "The Georges," and the "English Wits and Humorists," to a large audience in a Southern city, he asked a distinguished literary man what chance of success there would be in a certain other city not many miles away.

"I really don't know, Mr. Thackeray," was the reply. "I never succeeded there. But I am nobody and you are a great gun; it seems to me you ought to succeed anywhere. Still, I cannot conscientiously advise you to make the attempt; you might possibly fail and lay the blame on me." After some reflection, he added, "Perhaps if you were to make a special lecture, compounded of the best and most diverting parts of two or more of your series, you might draw a tolerably good house. But I will not guarantee anything."

Thackeray thought the matter over, accepted the suggestion, made up the compound lecture, advertised, "billed the town," and went over.

On his return his friend met him at the cars, and, after the usual greetings, said: "Well, sir, how did you make out?"

"Oh!" said Thackeray, merrily, "I have been playing the mountebank for a sixpence."

"What do you mean by that?"

"The night, you know, was wretched; the audience was thin, not above fifty or sixty persons, and a more quiet and absolutely sober set I never attempted to entertain. I did my best, but so profound was their respect—their awe, I may say—of me, that not a murmur of applause, not a ghost of a smile escaped them. Solemnly, sincerely, piously they stared at me. I do believe they thought I was preaching a funeral sermon. At the close of the lecture I fully expected a committee to come forward and request a copy of my obituary on the Georges for publication in the morning newspapers, and I felt disappointed that the door-keeper did not stop me as I went out to put crape on my arm and a weeper on my hat. It was truly a solemn and refreshing season.

"The next morning, after paying my advertising bills and the hotel charges, I found that I had cleared enough to pay my return fare to this place, and five dollars over. Congratulating myself on this fact, I strode jubilantly down to the station, and was in the act of stepping on the train when I felt myself touched on the back. Turning around I beheld a small man with the aspect of a turnkey, who, in no complimentary terms, made inquiry, "Ain't you a man by the name of Thackeray?"

"That is my name, sir!"

"Well, didn't you give a show here last night?"

"Why yes, I think it was decidedly a show."

"Well, thar's a law in this town that any man that gives a show has to pay five dollars license for a given' uv the show, and you didn't pay no license, and I'm the sargent uv this town, and here's the bill, and you got to pay it before you kin git in them keers."

"This was too good; I handed the fierce little sergeant the five dollars, paid my railroad fare out of my own pocket, and so," concluded Thackeray, with a jolly laugh, "I played the mountebank for sixpence, and upon my honor I enjoyed it."

The Labor Question.

The question of labor supply, and that of wages for labor, is every day becoming more complicated and serious. Almost daily the journals bring from all parts of the country intelligence of bitter strifes between the employer and the employed. In the face of slowly but surely decreasing values, we have the imperious demand, backed by organized numbers, for more wages. The question of the ability of the employer to pay higher wages with the price of the products of labor, is not thought of, or inquired into; but with unreasoning persistency, the unreasonable demand is made with the accompanying threat, give us more money or the work in your manufactories, your mines, your shops and farms, shall stop; and we will force you into bankruptcy and ruin. The insane notion seems to have taken possession of the manual laborer, that all property is the product of the labor of the hands alone, and consequently that all property belongs to that class of community who do hand labor; forgetting that brain labor is quite as important and necessary, more scarce, and without which to conceive, plan and arrange, there would be no remunerative work for the mechanic to do.

During the past year prices for labor have generally been raised, and a general good understanding between the employer and employed secured; but suddenly the demand is made from the same quarter for a decrease of one-fifth in the hours that make a laborer's day. This is, of course, practically calling again for higher wages.

The true cause of this clamor for less work and more wages is, not as many of the working men claim, that they may share fairly in the products of their labor, or that they may have more time for the improving of their "immortal minds;" but this condition of things is the fruit of an indefinable demoralized condition of the public mind, that has been, growing upon us for the past ten years, demanding much money for little or no equivalent, either in labor or merchandise. The immutable laws of demand and supply, must regulate the price of products and labor, and any unnatural forcing up of prices by the laborer, must in the end work mischief to him, by enhancing the price of rents, living, &c.—The standard price of a week's work of a common laborer, is and for a long time has been a barrel of wheat flour. The present prices of labor and flour will give nearly two barrels for each week's work. So long as the price of labor is regulated by the above standard, the laborer will always be sure of a good living with a handsome margin for a rainy day besides.

With eight hours for labor, eight hours for rest and meals, with eight for idleness, it is a serious question whether the eight hours spent in general idleness, with the usual attendants of loafing, smoking and whisky drinking, would not be more damaging to the peace, comfort and character of the laborer and his family, than though it were spent in honest toil even with a minimum of remuneration. One thing is clearly evident to every thinking person, who carefully considers all sides of this question, namely, that if laborers continue to demand higher wages and shorter days, they will most effectually and surely block the wheels of all enterprise. New manufacturing establishments will not be opened, new houses will not be built, work will become more and more scarce, and, finally in the end the reflex action upon the laborer be most disastrous.

A Brooklyn Cat Story.

A gentleman living in Brooklyn, who takes great delight in his flower garden, was for a long time annoyed by the depredations of his neighbors' cats. It appeared as though his particular garden was selected for the scene of the nightly revels of all the cats in the city. Independent of the destruction they brought upon his rose, tulip, geranium and other flowers, they kept the whole household awake every night by their incessant and noisy scrimmages. Driven at last to desperation, the annoyed citizen lay in ambush one night lately with a well loaded shot gun, and when the congress was in full session, blazed away. In a couple of nights, eight female felines fell victims to his unerring aim.

As animal matter is good for vegetation, he determined to bury the slaughtered grimalkins at the roots of his grape-vines. Being a quaint kind of a genius, it struck him that as the game had done so much when alive to disorganize his attempts at adornment, it would be only fair that they should make as much reparation as possible after death. He accordingly buried the eight innocents in a straight line, equidistant, heads downward, but left their tails (which in dead cats are always as stiff as a poker) sticking out of the ground. To assimilate them somewhat to the brilliancy of the flowers around, he adorned each tail with colored streamers. In doing this he simply had an eye to the beautiful, but the effect upon the friends and relatives of the buried pussies was as singular as satisfactory.

On the first evening after the burial, our friend heard a most unnatural and terrible howl of anguish in his garden. Rushing to the window, by the light of the moon he descried three or four cats standing opposite their inverted brethren, and showing every symptom of the acutest terror. Their eyes looked like burning coals of fire, and appeared to be starting out of their heads, as they winklessly glared at these terrible caudal extremities. Their hair stood on end, their tails were swelled to double their natural proportions, and each cat was standing stiff upon its toe-nails, apparently spell-bound. For a minute they thus stood horridly howling, and then, with a simultaneous shriek, they all dashed madly over the fence, and fled in terror away. Since then, our friend has been enabled of nights to sleep the sleep of the virtuous, and his flower-beds are left intact. The discoverers of this catastrophe are supposed to have disseminated the news of the terrible scene among the other felines, for although occasionally a cat is observed glaring for an instant over the fence at the row of tails, as though seeking confirmation of the shocking news, and then mournfully, but precipitately retiring, not one has since that night set its foot in our friend's garden.

How Indians Catch Eagles.

The son of a physician of Dubuque, who is now stationed at Fort Buford, Dacotah Territory, has written a long letter to his father giving some interesting items with regard to Indians. An extract is appended:

The camp of Indians which we visited were chiefly engaged in catching war eagles, to make head dresses. They have a wooden lodge built in the camp where the medicine ceremony necessary to catch is performed.—No woman is allowed to enter the lodge. They can come to the door and hand in provisions, but must not cross the threshold. You are not allowed to spit on the floor, and must sit in a certain position of the lodge. You must enter and pass out at the north door. Wash and I were let in to see the ceremonies.

When a man goes to trap the eagles, he first goes to the medicine lodge and is not allowed to sleep until midnight; he then eats a little and sleeps until the morning star rises. He, with his comrades then go out to the traps without food or drink, and sit all day in the traps watching for the eagles. At night they return and enter the medicine lodge, and at midnight only do they eat and drink and break their long fast of twenty-four hours' duration. They then are allowed to sleep until dawn, when they go out again and stay four days, during which time they have food and drink four times and have never entered their own lodges or spoken to their friends, unless such as may be trapping with them. After the four days are up, they go back to their own lodges lean, tired and sleepy, and sleep and eat and hunt deer until they are able to try another four days' trapping excursion. The eagles are brought alive into camp, and after some ceremony the tails are pulled out, and they are let go to grow another tail for next year. The trap consists of a hole in the ground covered with sticks and grass. A dead rabbit, fox or prairie chicken is tied to the top; the eagle swoops down and fastens his claws into it and tries to fly away with it, but the Indian (who is cyncealed in the hole) puts out his hand, catches the eagle by both legs, hauls him into the hole and ties him. He then fixes the top and waits for another eagle. We saw one man there who had caught six eagles in one day in this way. They say if they do not fast and do their medicine properly the eagle will get one of his claws loose and tear their hands. Some have had their hands ruined forever in this way. If a man does not catch an eagle during the day, he is obliged to moan and cry all night; we could hardly sleep with the noise made at night by the unsuccessful hunters.

The Value of Good Roads.

It is an old true, but trite, saying, "What's everybody's business is nobody's." This is very true in respect to country roads in almost all localities under the faulty systems at present in vogue. Show us a locality where the roads are well made and well kept, and we will show you a thriving and intelligent community. That good roads add very much to the value of the real estate around them, is not only a well-known fact in the experience of any one who has been on the search for a farm or dwelling place; but they have for ages been considered as the chief test of the state of civilization in which peoples and nations have existed. We estimate the intelligence of the ancient Romans highly, from the fact that they made roads, upwards of two thousand years ago, which serve the purposes of the European nations which use them to-day.—These roads were one great agent in bringing to a state of civilization our ancient ancestors, who at that time dressed principally in blue paint in the summer, and shivered in winter, with the shelter of a sheepskin around their loins. It is a matter of surprise that while nationally we, too, are improving our public domain, and bringing under civilizing influences our wild races, by assisting in the building of such a system of roads as has never before been dreamt of, we allow our country roads to be almost unfit for travel, by neglect or badly applied efforts. If we were to apply the test of roads (to say nothing of school-houses) to many districts that we know, we should infer that they were pretty well behind in the march of improvement," and had a pretty long road to travel before they got abreast of the present order of things.

THE DAILY FREEMAN.

CITY OF KINGSTON, (RONDOUT.)

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 4, 1872.

The Necessity of Municipal Cleanliness.

Our city, in common with many if not most others throughout the country, has suffered this year from small-pox considerably, both from the disease itself and the effect on business in keeping timid people away. We are glad to be able to say that the scourge has abated, and that there is no further danger to be feared, and we trust this is the last we will hear of it for years.

But the necessity for cleanliness, strict regard for the laws of health, and rigid enforcement of the rules and regulations approved and adopted by the Board of Health, are no less to-day, nor will they be for months to come than they have been with the disease in our midst. Soon hot weather will be here, festering in the cess-pools and sewers and sinks, and burning every heap of garbage into a plague-spot. Our place is vastly improved over what it used to be years ago, but there is still much filth in it. In some of the lower wards the houses of the inhabitants are very filthy. In one of the houses in which there was a case of small-pox some weeks ago the householder had a drove of dogs in his rooms, the floors of which were covered with half-eaten bones and refuse, and were as filthy as a pig-pen. There are other cases where families keep goats, hogs and dogs in their living rooms; but happily these are few.

Extraordinary efforts should be made to clean up every such place.—Under the steady efforts of our street cleaners the streets are assuming a more agreeable condition, and are altogether less offensive to the sight and olfactories than they were a month ago. Every place should present a more than usually clean condition, for another dread disease may be expected to land upon our shores and perhaps find a lodgment. The cholera was last year traveling westward and was expected on our coast if frost had not beaten it, last fall. Now it is reported to have reached New York, although it did not land. Forty cases are reported on a French war vessel from Havana, but it was ordered out to sea again. But there is constant danger of the disease coming, and to get ready for it is a precaution called for by the simplest dictates of prudence. Municipal and household cleanliness are incumbent as a preventive. We are about rid of one scourge; let us ward off another.

Good Counsel.

John W. Forney of the Press, speaking of the Republican candidate for governor, Hartranft, talks as follows:

But we must not ignore the action of the Pennsylvania Democrats. It comes in time to warn us before our National Convention next week. From present appearance Pennsylvania will again be the battle-ground. I place little confidence in Republican success in New York next November, if we allow madmen to manage our counsels in that State, and if the opposition are wise and discreet. Some of the men at the helm in Pennsylvania can lose that to Grant, too, if they are permitted to go on. A very little is expected at their hands—very little for them, but a vast thing for the people; and that little is, to give the Republicans a chance to vote for good men in October. The whole power of the National Government, of the State Government, and of the City Government is in the hands of one class of politicians. They manipulate everything. Let them enjoy their prerogative; but for their own sakes, if they would perpetuate their families, they ought to recognize the obvious fact that for this year at least something like discretion and toleration should be manifested. It is folly, worse than folly, to suppose that the Republican State ticket can be elected as it stands. Improve it, gentlemen. Take men of your own school and stamp, if you please, but take such as your constituencies can vote for. For a year past The Press and other papers have implored these managers to save Grant by "retiring" objectionable aspirants by bringing forward good men and true as candidates. Harrisburg's answer carried dismay to the Republican party of the whole State. It is not too late. The way to victory is as plain as the road to defeat; and surely our guides are not so blind as they cannot see that which is the best.

Being one of the ablest politicians in the land, he sees disaster coming in Pennsylvania and speaks out sober words of warning. Now, according to the theory of some administration men, he must be a traitor. The FREEMAN sees that Grant's nomination will hopelessly sunder the Republican party all over the Union, but for saying so it, too, is denounced. Infatuation seems to rule the hour. But wait to see who is right.

Taxes on Silks.

David A. Wells has some very good notions on tariffs, but teaches others which are inimical to true political economy. In a speech before the Free Traders in Cooper Institute on Thursday last, he showed that the country consumed, annually, silks to the amount of $30,000,000. As the average duty on this article is about 60 per cent., the government has received an income thereon in eight years of $144,000,000. This Mr. Wells calls a needless tax on the people. On the other hand he would tax tea, sugar, coffee and muslins for revenue. This would fall heavie[illegible] on laboring classes, while the form[illegible] mes mainly out of the wealth[illegible] ir idea of Free Trade is to tax we[illegible] and not labor, but this modern [illegible]rist, while pleading for the same theory, wishes to practice on opposite ones. A little plain common sense is better than such men's wordy speeches.

BY TELEGRAPH TO DAILY FREEMAN.

CUBA.

HAVANA, June 3.

It is reported that the Insurgent chiefs Salome, Hernandez, Sanguill, Pancho, Vega and several others arrived safely at Jamaica. Hernandez however, after arrival there, died of fever. Sanguill and Vega are unfit for active service, owing to wounds.

The merchant steamer Clara temporarily fitted up as a man of war, while cruising in search of the Edgar Stewart, May 28th, ran into the Spanish gunboat Celage, striking her in the forward chains carrying away her foremast. The Celage sunk six minutes afterwards.

The crew and money box was saved and taken on board the Clara, which was but slightly injured.

MASS MEETING TO RATIFY THE CINCINNATI NOMINATION.

NEW YORK, June 3.

A mass meeting to ratify the Cincinnati nominations was held to-night at Cooper Institute Hall. The hall was well filled and outside meetings were organized, and addressed from stands erected in the square. Gen. Cochrane was nominated as chairman of the inside meeting. Cochrane in opening made a speech, when the following resolutions were read and unanimously adopted:

We the citizens of New York in mass meeting assembled, without distinction of party, do hereby declare and resolve:

1st—That we reaffirm the wise, patriotic and statesmanlike platform of principles adopted by the late Liberal Convention at Cincinnati.

2d—That we welcome the hearty acceptance of this platform by the late Democratic State Convention at Rochester.

3d—That we recognize in our distinguished fellow citizen and friend Horace Greeley, the true representative of the principles of the equality of all men, and of exact justice to all men; the true representative of the principles that must triumph in a general re-union, to be secured not by bayonet, but by mutual regard and the mutual guaranty of reciprocal rights and benefits; an honest man, the constitutional foe to the thieves who must be driven from national as well as municipal authority, as the first step to real civil service reform. We pledge ourselves, to win a life-long laborer and associate of laborers, with whom the rights of the workingmen will be sure of needful regard; a public man who has commanding ability the nation has long recognized; and a leader whose name is welcome as the watchword of victory.

4th—That we recognize in Governor B. Gratz Brown of Missouri, a chivalric statesman, the whole of whose public life proves him a fit associate for Horace Greeley in the task of extending to the whole Union the work so well done in his own state, giving back power to the people, peace to the nation, and purity to the government.

5th—That we hail the general approval of the Cincinnati platform and ticket, and particularly the enthusiastic support of both thro'-out the south, as promising to lift our politics out of the dangerous ruts of sectionalism, wherein they have too long run, and to bury out of sight the hates and controversies of the war.

6th—That we welcome the co-operation of all parties in the work of reunion and reform to which the Cincinnati ticket is dedicated, and to which we pledge by an overwhelming majority the vote of this city and the Empire State.

The list of Vice Presidents includes Erastus Brooks, Ben Wood, Geo. Wilkes, John K. Porter, Moses H. Grinnell, Gideon J. Tucker, Richard Schell, Fred. A. Conkling, Waldo Hutchings, Thos. E. Stewart, Horace F. Clark, John McKeon, L. G. Garbenskle, Eldridge Ward, C. A. Lamont, and hundreds of others. Senator Tifton of Nebraska was the first speaker. General Kilpatrick second, Col. Alex. McClure of Penn. third, Robert B. Roosevelt fourth. Letters were read from Senator Fenton, Cassius, M. Clay, Montgomery Blair, Geo. W. Julian, Jas. Brooks, Gen. Imboden, John Danforth, of New London, C. B. Sedgwick of Syracuse, W. W. Niles, and Dr. Adolph Kessler.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, June 3.

Ex-president Johnson who arrived here to-day from Tennessee, in obedience to the summons of the House Committee on Military affairs, appeared before that Committee this afternoon. He testified that General Buell had published some statement in the character of a defence, a notice of which he had seen, but was never able to procure a full copy of it. In this statement he had mentioned his name in connection with the defense of Nashville.—There was no personal quarrel between him and General Buell, but merely a difference of opinion as to the propriety of the evacuation of that city. Mr. Johnson said that from subsequent events his own judgment was shown to be correct. Therefore if his name were mentioned in the records of the Buell military commission alleged to have been removed from the war department, it must have been to his credit. He made this first remark in order to discredit the insinuations that possibly he had some agency in the removal of the record, and to hide unfavorable comments.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

NEW YORK, June 3.

The Board of Alderman adopted resolutions mourning the loss of Mr. Bennett; to attend his funeral in a body, and that flags on public buildings be placed at half mast on the day of the obsequies.

WM. LLOYD GARRISON TO CHARLES SUMNER.

BOSTON, June 3.

The following letter appeared in print:

ROXBURY, June 1st, 1872.

TO DEAR MR. SUMNER.—I write to you to say with all the frankness which a sober friendship justifies, that I have carefully read your speech in sharp arraignment of the President, and my conviction is that it is ill judged, ill timed, and so extravagant in its charges, and bitter in its personalities as to neutralize what even of just criticism can be found in it. It will assuredly serve the purposes of the worst forces the cause of impartial freedom has most to fear very many of them now rally under the deceptive banner of liberal Republicanism, but the loyal liberty upholding party with which you have hitherto been proved to be identified, will peruse it with deep regret, if not with unfeigned astonishment. Certainly you do not represent Massachusetts in this sweeping impeachment. Her Republican people are almost a unit for the re-election of the man whom you attempt to stain with crime and cover with infamy. You cannot seperate General Grant from the party which put him in the presidential chair, and which means to keep him in it if it is possible, another term; being satisfied as to his ability, integrity, and patriotism, and therefore in stigmatizing him as a venal self-seeker, and an unscrupulous usurper, you virtually pronounce it to be equally corrupt and untrustworthy. This you have a right to do on your own responsibility, if you must, but in so doing you will find yourself for the first time, in marked opposition to the sentiment of Massachusetts as its Senator in Congress, and surrounded by allies who have been heretofore your deadliest enemies. Occupying as I do an outside position, I write this, not under party bias, but only because I feel constrained in this manner to free my mind, as a proof of my friendship.

Receive this in the spirit which has dictated it. Faithfully and regretfully yours,

WM. LLOYD GARRISON,

To HON. CHARLES SUMNER.

METHODIST CONFERENCE.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

NEW YORK, June 3.

The Conference met in Hanson Place church, Bishop Ames presiding. It was resolved first, that a committee of nine members be appointed by the Bishop to confer with any other religious bodies desiring to unite with the M. E. Church. Second, That none of the presiding Elders in foreign conferences, or missionaries in foreign lands be required to serve more than four years in the same conference.

Forty-Second Congress--2d Session.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 3.

Mr. LOGAN again denounced Sumner's attack as slanderous and malignant, and without just foundation. The argument of Sumner that General Grant, having been educated as a military man, could not be successful as a civilian, was an argument that no one was fit to be a legislative or executive officer of the government unless he had been educated expressly for that purpose. Like Sumner himself, that doctrine might do for Massachusetts where they think that in order to be fit for the office of town constable, a man must be educated at Harvard, but Grant's old soldiers and the common people of the country would not appreciate it. Senator Sumner had been before this country as a Statesman, and what had he accomplished to be compared with what General Grant had done?

Mr. LOGAN thought it was correct to say that the statute book bore fewer measures originated by Sumner, than by any other man claiming to be a Statesman. The fact was, that his Statesmanship and greatness consisted in high sounding phrases, long drawn out, and sentences and quotations from old books. His history and achievements were mere glittering generalties, while the "tanner" of Galena had written his history in blood, and it would be read as long as men read anything. Mr. Sumner had charged the President with helping his relations, as if it were a crime. But the fact was, that he, Mr. Logan, was responsible for some of the appointments charged upon President Grant, and the President himself had appointed only a few of his relatives.

HOUSE.

Mr. SLOSS introduced a bill removing the political disability of George H. Houston, Jas. L. Pugh, Joseph Wheeler, John A. Campbell, and John R. Bushwell, all of Alabama.

Mr. WALL of Flo., desired to offer as an amendment, the social equalty bill, but objection was made, and WALL protested against the removal of disabilities of white men while the disabilities of men of his own race, were kept up. Bill passed.

E. H. ROBERTS from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported a bill to restore the office of Director of the Bureau of Statistics; and to extend his duties. After a colloquy, in which the fate of Wells, late special commissioner of the revenue, was alluded to as a case of a man who was legislated out of office because his statistical report did not suit certain preconceived opinions, the bill was rejected, 86 to 51

Up to two o'clock on Saturday afternoon Gov. Hoffman had signed 871 of the bills passed by the legislature. It is thought the total number of bills will be less than 900.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Casey has not resigned yet, after all.

Gens. Kilpatrick and Longstreet are out for Greeley.

The Pennsylvania Democratic Convention is reported in favor of Greeley.

Frank Blair is out for Greeley very strong. So is Gen. Palmer of Illinois.

It is reported that over fifty colored delegates have been chosen to the Philadelphia Convention.

Col. Forney is reported to have written a letter advising the withdrawal of the Hartranft ticket.

The Free Traders, who met at Steinway Hall Thursday night, want another nomination made for President, but so far nobody has obliged them. They are equally down on Greeley and Grant. Another G might suit them—Groesbeck.

"Spotted Tail" indignantly denies that he authorized the association of his name with that of Victoria C. Woodhull on the Presidential ticket. The following despatch has been received from him: "Woodhull! Squaw! Ugh! Me no run!"

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Miss Nellie Grant is being treated with great consideration at European courts.

Thomas Carlyle is out for a prohibitory liquor law in Great Britain.

It costs something not to attend as a juror in New York. George Opdyke was fined $250.

The Presbyterian Assembly has resolved that women shall not be allowed to preach or pray in public.

The Court of Oyer & Terminer in New York had five murderers arraigned before it on a recent occasion.

John Harper is in Long Branch, with Longfellow, who is in fine condition for his match with Henry Bassett.

Two celebrated British bands are on their way to Gilmore's Jubilee. Over $50,000 has already been realized by the sale of season tickets.

In Pere La Chaise Cemetery there is a monument in the form of a "tear," erected by a husband to his wife, with the inscription: "Judge by this how I loved her."

It is reported on good authority that Mlle. Christine Nilsson will be married in July to a young Frenchman named Ronzeand. If this is so, another Frenchman has been jilted.

Vanderbilt is going to work with a will on his underground railway, and will put from two to three thousand men upon it at once.—Ground will be broken this month, and the road will be done in two years.

The trusses of the old part of the roof of the Basilica of St. Paul, at Rome, which were formed in 816, were recently taken down and found to be sound and good, after being in use for upwards of a thousand years. Has the spirit of shoddy got into our modern timber also?

An Indiana man has instituted proceedings to restrain a wife from putting up a tombstone over the grave of her first husband. He can't see why she should spend money on marble which he could exchange for old rye. He thinks some women never can see the eternal fitness of things.

A benefactor of his race in Georgia has invented a pretty piece of furniture in the shape of a parlor still, which, under the superintendence of the young ladies of the house, who would otherwise be frivolously occupied in piano playing or novel reading, will run out from five to ten gallons of brandy a day.

The Hartford Times tells a touching story of one of the charming young ladies in its city, who succeeded in bewitching ten handsome young men at the same time, and was actually engaged to be married to all of them. She indiscreetly told a sister of one of them about her dilemma, however, and now she is likely to die an old maid, poor girl.

Unexpected Return.

Twenty-three years ago Robert Livingston, son of the late Alexander Livingston, of East Greenwich, Washington county, suddenly left home without any notice to his friends, and did not return. Thirteen years after his father died, leaving a will in which it was provided that Robert should have twenty-three hundred dollars of the property, provided he should return to his home in ten year from the time of his father's death. Nothing was heard from Robert until about a week since, when he returned much to the suprise of everybody, and just in time to claim his twenty-three hundred dollars, as the ten years mentioned in the will expired but a few days after his arrival.—Albany Argus.

The hotel waiters of Berlin have struck and put their demand in alarming form. It is, that they shall actually receive the wages which are charged "for services" in the hotel bill as paid by travelers. The point of the joke lies in the fact that all over Europe, the hotel bills include, in addition to the items of lodging, candles, &c., one for service, generally in an ordinary hotel, a quarter of a thaler or a france for each guest. The actual wages allowed the servants by the landlords is only a small part of the receipts from this source.

The Bradford Reporter says some fiend set fire to a carload of bark which had been left standing on a switch near Dushore, and then started the car down the grade. It kept the track to Monroeton, a distance of thirteen miles, which it ran in twenty minutes. The car was owned by the Towanda Tanning Company. The authors of this malicious mischief should be ferreted out, and receive the severest punishment due their devilish acts.

THE DAILY FREEMAN.

CITY OF KINGSTON, (RONDOUT.)

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 4, 1872.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Good Templars, Attention!

A full attendance of the members of Union Lodge, No 429, is desired this Tuesday evening at eight o'clock, sharp, as business of importance is to be transacted.

T. O. TAYLOR, W. C. T.

Personal.

Prof. E. S. Wood, late of Bowdoin College, with our local, D. S. Hasbrouck, left last night for Poughkeepsie, where they expect to meet Davids of the Eagle; from thence they journey to West Point. Should they go astray, friends will please return them as lost property.

Deep Water Craft.

The bark Five Brothers is now lading five hundred and fifty tons of coal for the Merrimack Manufacturing Company of Salem, Mass., at the dock of the Del. & Hud. Canal Company at Kingston Point in this city, and the Five Brothers appearance aloft is an evidence that her mate is "a good sailor boy."

A Great Hen.

Cummings & Kiernan have a most remarkable hen. The other day it laid three fine eggs inside of an hour, and then had to be driven from the nest. Such stock is certainly profitable, and the rush by the public to get her eggs in order to raise a brood of the same kind of chicks is said to be wonderful.

Strawberry Festival.

The Union Sunday School, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, will hold their annual strawberry festival on Friday evening of the present week at the Children's Church, Ponckhockie. Strawberries, cream and other delicacies to tempt and please the appetite, will be furnished in abundance. A general invitation is extended.

Early Closing.

In the column devoted to local notices will be found an agreement signed by twenty-eight business men of this place, pledging themselves to close at 8 o'clock P. M. from June 17th to December 1st, and at 7 P. M. from December 1st to April 1. The gentlemen mean to make the early closing movement a success, and the notice referred to will be a good thing for those who obstinately and for the worst reasons refuse to agree to the arrangement.

Horse Died.

Mr. Adam Metzger lost quite a valuable horse in Stone Ridge on Sunday afternoon.—One of Metzger's carriages had been with some members of Alderman Derrenbacher's family to a funeral at Wawarsing, and while returning to this city, when about two miles from Stone Ridge, the horse was taken sick, and after being put into a stable in the last named place died in a short time. The driver, Emory Snook, was compelled to hire a horse to bring the carriage and passengers home.

Phew!

A colored man on Sunday morning fell into the vault of an outhouse on the Company's dock, and being discovered by some tender-hearted sympathizers had a running bow-line passed around under his arms and dragged from his unpleasant berth; after which Hank Deyo and Pat McDermott (the sympathizers before mentioned) cast the unfortunate man into the placid waters of the creek and soused him up and down until he emerged looking as clean and limp as if he had been towed overboard in the Gulf Stream from the bumpskin of a fast sailing clipper for the two dog watches.

Coal Arrivals.

On Saturday last there arrived at tide water through the Del. & Hud. Canal, seventy-two canal boats laden with nine thousand one hundred and sixty-seven tons of coal. Thirty-two of those canal boats were brought from Eddyville to this city by the Maurice Wurts, Captain George E. Dubois, being one of the largest number of coal boats ever brought down the creek in one tow since the enlargement of the canal.

On Monday sixty-four canal boats laden with eight thousand one hundred and thirty-five tons of coal, reached tide water at Eddyville.

A Novel Craft.

On Saturday last a little screw steamer of twenty feet keel and six feet breadth of beam came steaming down the creek and stopped at the Coal Company's dock for fuel. The boat was built, engine and hull, by two brothers who live on the Shawangunk mountains near Ellenville, and carried in a wagon to the canal, where it was launched for a voyage to Newark, the two brothers constituting the crew. While here the craft excited considerable attention among the boatmen as she was taking on board half a ton of coal to run to Newark. The brothers, whose names we did not learn, are neither boat-builders nor machinists, yet the miniature steamer which they have constructed had every appearance of having come from the hands of experienced builders and machinists.

Tows.

The following tows left this port last evening:—Steamer Oswego and New York for New York—Schooner Mary Norn; bargesWool, Sturgeon, F. N. Sill, Franconia, Robt. Gorrell; boats Graywack, M. E. Ritchey, Mohawk, J. S. Hall, M. Rogers, Agnes, Wm. F. Mount, D. H. Lockwood, Hattie, S. M. Haden, Jas. Roach (light), Geo. W. Perr, 1385; scow No. 2, ——— 5 coal boats one light coal boat to Weehawken; boats Waverly from Poughkeepsie to New York.

Steamer Farrington to Newburgh—boat Geo. Hamden; 1323, 523, 1235, to Poughkeepsie; 933 to Marlboro; 1580 to Wappingers Falls (light); Penn. coal boats.

Steamer Herald to Albany—barges Washington, Geo. North, Monterey; boats Alpha, Leviathan, Wm. Casey, Frank Sherman, Uriah Gilbert, Rattlesnake, J. E. Harrower, Wm. Young, J. N. Mathews, E. C. Dewitt, Gen. Herkimer, Bundy, No. 3, L. Day, 1610, 109; 421, to Troy; Comet, to Coeymans; barge A. N. Briggs to Coeymans; barge Wallabout to Catskill; schooner A. Terrence to Hudson.

Steamer Pittston to Hudson—boats S. P. Skinner, Ulster, 6 Del. & Hud. canal boats, Pa. coal boats.

Up tows from New York are as follows:—Steamers Valentine and Marshall—boats Warren, Fly, Pearl, Sherman and Knapp, A. G. Kirkpatrick, J. F. Heclua, Cornelia, Jas. Dunn, Whitehall, C. Reiley, Hanford, Smith, Passaic, June, A. W. Humphreys, and schooner S. Newton.

Villainous Assault.

A one armed colored chap by name William Coons, become most villainously ugly last Sunday morning and beat his wife Sarah until her face was mashed to a jelly. He would not allow her to leave the house, and when she attempted it he fired a revolver at her, which luckily did not hit the mark, otherwise we would now be recording a murder instead of an assault and battery with intent to kill.—Officer Shader was finally notified, and he immediately started to the rescue. The scoundrel was found in his house, and as soon as he saw the officer he presented his pistol at Shader's head saying, if he touched him he would blow his brains out. Shader immediately sprang upon him, when during the scuffle the pistol fell to the floor. It was examined afterwards, and found to be loaded with powder and ball. Coons was then taken to jail, and on Monday morning a hearing was had before the Recorder, and the facts as above stated elicited.—The prisoner was committed to jail, to await the action of the grand jury.

Saugerties Road.

The Saugerties road is in a fearful condition, and we would inquire most respectfully, what the Town Commissioner is doing? He received a large number of votes simply because people supposed he would try to make a good road for the benefit of a certain hotel down there. But he seems not only to forget the interest of the public, but his own also.—Let us try to have one good drive. There is no excuse for the Saugerties road to be out of repair. It is not troubled by heavy loads passing over it. None but pleasure parties and trotting horses are seen on this main thoroughfare to our city. It is no pleasure, however, to ride over its ruts; the scenery is delightful, but the most beautiful of landscape views would not look pleasing while being driven through an abandoned corn-field; and to ride over this road is very much like driving thro' a corn-field on a trot, in a lumber wagon, seated on a board across the box. Let us rest.

Those Trout.

The fishing party of two gentlemen which went on Saturday last from this city to the trout stream called Dry Brook near Lumberville, was augmented on Sunday afternoon by the arrival of a gentleman and his wife with the wife of one of the fishermen "gone before." While Osterhoudt and Weiner were just slinging fair sized trout to grass, Bonner got his tackle ready and taking a position between the other two knocked the surprise right into them by landing a fifteen pounder, after a gamey tussle, quivering upon the greensward. The entire party returned home by the train which arrived in this city just before noon, on Monday, and soon after their arrival a FREEMAN reporter received an invitation to dine on those trout—and the fifteen pounder was cooked—stuffed you know, with champagne sauce and served at the hospitable mahogany of the Mansion House. That reporter went, saw and conquered an indefinite number of trout, and we have a well settled idea that when asked if he'd have sauce he didn't say no—at least not audibly, and the seed thereof didn't scratch his throat a mite.

Scared.

Dr. Crispell of upper Kingston has been embellishing his residence on Fair street, and among other things has added to his house a coat of fresh paint. Now the Dr., in order to protect the purity of this new coat, and also to protect the people generally, nailed a strip of board across the entrance of the piazza. On this board he tacked a piece of paper which contained the reason why these things were done. An old lady of German descent came along the other day, carrying a load of fancy toys on her head, which she was selling at the houses along the street. She stopped at the Dr.'s, and with much labor took down her basket, and then started to go up the piazza toward the door. All of a sudden she saw the board and sign. She staggered back, and looked at it a moment with the most intense excitement displayed on every feature, then with the words "mein Got, de schmall box!" she grabbed her basket and went up the street with incredible swiftness for such an old woman. As she went, she would now and then look back over her shoulder toward the house, and repeat in a scared voice "De schmall box, de schmall box, mein Got!" then hurry on faster than ever.

Accidents.

Jacob Place was pushed, by some person to us unknown, from the stoop of Peter Frickle on Saturday last and fractured his collar-bone, besides injuring his hip.

Last Friday morning, while a fine colt belonging to one Lewis of Woodstock was being haltered for the first time, the animal accidentally broke its hind leg. It was caused by a jerk of the halter, which broke the bone.

Henry Lathrop, a student in Dr. J. O. Van Hoevenbergh's office, on Friday last, while loading a pistol was shot through the hand by the premature explosion of the weapon, the ball passing through the little finger of the left hand, missing the bone and joint.

George Gillsinger, while at work on the house of Horace Maxon in Hurley, fell from a scaffold to the ground, a distance of about ten feet, and was severely hurt internally and his recovery is somewhat doubtful. Gillsinger is an old war veteran, having served in Europe, in Mexico and during the great rebellion in this country, and was wounded under Gen. Banks in the Shenandoah Valley.

On Friday last a son of Mr. D. J. Gue, the well known merchant in Creek Locks, a lad of about twelve years of age, was sent from his father's house to this city to request Dr. A. Crispell to call upon his father at his home in Creek Locks. The lad drove a horse before a sulky, and when ascending the grade just this side of the South Rondout ferry some little girl who had a basket of coal upon her head let it drop in front of young Gue's horse, which caused the animal to shy, and the sulky coming in collision with another vehicle near by, got such a cant the boy was capsized into the road, and bringing up on his head he sustained a severe scalp wound. Fortunately the accident occurred near the home of a good Samaritan and Mr. Kiernan Flannery, and members of his family, carried the injured lad into their house and tenderly cared for him, dispatching a messenger for Dr. Crispell, who soon arrived, and after dressing the boy's wounds placed him in his wagon and carried him home. Knowing Mr. Gue as we do, we think we are justifiable in saying he and his family will cherish very grateful remembrances of Mr. Flannery and his family for their kindness to the boy in his need of helping hands, and we think the corpulent medico will come in for a "thank you" too.

Enterprise.

Edward Shearer, of Rondout, has made arrangements to run a Market Wagon from Deans' to Delhi, making two trips each week. James W. Colville, of this place will be in charge, and promises to undersell all other dealers.—Utilitarian.

Election of Officers of the Kingston Water Works Company.

The Kingston Water Works Company held their annual meeting at the Ulster County Savings Institution, Monday afternoon, and the following were elected:

Directors: E. M. Brigham, Daniel T. Van Buren, Reuben Bernard, C. F. Brill, H. G. Crouch, James E. Ostrander, Jacob Van Deusen, Augustus Schoonmaker and James R. Foland. President, E. M. Brigham; Vice President, Jacob B. Van Deusen; Treasurer, James E. Ostrander; Secretary, James R. Foland; Attorney for the Board, Augustus Schoonmaker Jr.

The act of incorporation of this company passed in the spring of 1871, and yet nothing has been done, with the exception of the subscription of some $18,200 stock. At the meeting on Monday, the company resolved to push the matter, and try and devise some plan to bring water to this place and supply both upper and lower Kingston. A committee composed of E. M. Brigham, James E. Ostrander and Reuben Bernard was appointed to solicit subscriptions to the capital stock.

The village of Ellenville has fine water works erected at the expense of the village, free to all. There has not been a fire in the village since their erection. A hose with pipe can be fastened at nearly every building and a large stream of water thrown thirty feet by the mere force of the water in the pipe. One gentleman who owns a livery stable in that place says, says he would not be without it for $500 a year, as it is that much benefit to him to wash his wagons.

If Ellenville, a small country village, can afford to have water works, then why should the City of Kingston be so backward in the matter? Let us have water, and plenty of it, and with sufficient head to force a steam over our houses; then fires will be at a discount. By all means let the city build it, and let every man, woman and child have free use of it.

Fair and Festival.

The congregation of the Reformed Church of West Hurley have just completed their new parsonage at a considerable expense, and on the Fourth of July the ladies of the congregation will hold a fair and festival at the church, the proceeds to be applied towards the expense thus incurred. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Overlook.

A gentleman from upper Kingston who has been to the Overlook speaks in glowing terms of the beauty of the scenery. He claims she will outrival all places of the kind in the world. The addition of 120 feet will be completed by the 15th of this month. The road has been put in splendid condition, and there's not a doubt that hundreds will rush to this place as soon as the heated term commences.

Handsome Bar.

Mr. Clare, of the St. Nicholas House, (Red House), on the Saugerties road has the handsomest bar in the County. He has a fine collection of hot house plants and flowers. These flowers are in bloom. The bar is placed within this green house, the plants forming a back ground, making the beholder imagine he is in a flower garden. It really forms one of the prettiest pictures we have seen for a long time.

[Special to Daily Freeman.]

ROCHESTER BONDING CASE.

ALBANY, June 3rd, 1872.

In the town of Rochester bonding case, signed the 28th of May last, Judge Learned has decided that the motion shall stand over to the next special term, with leave to plaintiffs to serve affidavits, and defendants to read counter affidavits on hearing; the injunction to continue in the mean time. The next special term will be held on the last Tuesday in June.

Won't Decide or Adjourn.

The voters of a school district in Deaning wish to build a new school house in the place of the old log cabin now used for that purpose. At a meeting the whole number of voters were present—sixteen in all. On a vote for a site, eight voted for one location and eight for another. Failing to agree, a motion to adjourn was made. This also resulted in a tie. So the matter stands, and has stood for some months. A delegation was in our village last week to see Commissioner Montross about the difficulty. We believe there is no provision in the law to decide the question.—Ellenville Press.

VICINITY.

Middletown is plagued with sheep-killing dogs. Muzzle 'em—with a gun.

President Dickson of the Canal Company is expected home about the 1st of September.

Since the 1st of January the D. & H. Canal Company has mined and shipped 1,138,476 tons of coal.

Pond Eddy lumbermen divide their devotions between preying on the farmers and praying for rain.

The late rains have brought down the price of hay. It is selling in towns along the river at about $35 per ton.

A Westchester drunken lunatic attempted to hang his wife the other day, and only got forty days in jail for it.

It is reported that the Palisades are to be blasted for building purposes. It will be a "blasted" shame if this is so.

The Yonkers Gazette office has been removed to new and more commodious quarters, whereat the editor piously gives thanks.

The Oneonta Herald reports that hops are doing poorly in that county this year. Many of the farmers are going out of the hop business.

Quite an interest is felt in the new canning factory, in the neighborhood of Crawford's factory, in Shawangunk, which is about being started by Messrs. Fullerton & Marks. These gentlemen propose to can berries, fruit, pickles, horse-radish, etc., in large quantities.

The Poughkeepsie News man wears a "white plug" and the cotemporaries accuse him of being a Greeley man, but he indignantly spurns the base insinuation and says his hat is one of last year's style—that in fact he never wears any thing in the head-gear line less than a year old.

The local of the Catskill Recorder has been expecting a good item for some time. Some person is blasting the rock alongside the Recorder office, and the local thinks if an extra charge is put in the office will go up and he with it, and then what a sensation he'll have. But if he don't come down—well, the sensation will be quite as big, but not so pleasant.

We've heard say that for a cow to climb a tree tail first is a "phenomenon." A case of this kind came near occurring on Cabin Hill, last Wednesday. A cow belonging to Mr. Walter Amas switched her tail around a small tree, where it became fast and held her for twenty-four hours, when she was found and released. Perhaps she had started to climb the tree.

The Greatest Excitement SINCE THE FLOOD!

A. M. Low's PROCLAMATION FOR 1872,

READ IT!

A. M. LOW, the popular Boot and Shoe Dealer of No. 19 Wall street, City of Kingston, desires the people to know that he has stocked his store for the Spring and Summer of 1872 with all the very latest styles of Boots and Shoes, which he is now offering at a figure that is an inducement for all in want of foot gear to extend to him their patronage. In the line of Men's wear he introduces for the season a superior article of hand-made shoes, manufactured by Messrs. HANAN & REDDISH, of New York City. They are decidedly the "nobbiest" style ever placed in the market, made from the very best material and of the very best finish, and for which he is the sole agent in the City of Kingston. Besides these he has all other kinds in market of all the various shapes, styles, quality and prices.

Low has also the exclusive sale in this city of Women's and Misses' Shoes manufactured by Reynolds Brothers of Utica, and Munsen & Co. of Albany, articles celebrated for their beauty, finish, durability and peculiarity of preserving their shape. He is selling heaps of them daily, which is the best advertisement they can have, for everybody who buys them recommends them to their neighbors. As usual his stock is full in all the other grades of this line and will be kept so during the season.

Boys, Youths, Misses, Children, and Infants all go to Low's to get their feet clothed, for there they can find a stock to select from that beats anything outside of New York City. Had he space he would like to enumerate further—but it would fill this paper, and therefore he is obliged to stop with the simple announcement that he has the LALGEST STORE AND STOCK IN THE CITY—that he purchases at Wholesale and sells at retail, and that he is determined to keep the lead in his line of business, and not seeking a monopoly, invites competition from all sources, confident that he shall at least make his store worthy of patronage and one of the leading features of the new City of Kingston.

Respectfully, A. M. LOW,
42m3 No. 19 Wall Street, Kingston.

THE IMPROVED

WHEELER & WILSON

Again Improved.

PERFECTION is our motto, and with this end in view, we have so improved the

FEEDING DEVICE

as vastly to improve its efficacy, while at the same time much less skill and care are required in its management. Neither the thread nor the cloth require holding, and both the thickest and thinnest goods are sewed perfectly. Seams are crossed with great ease, and the work guided with scarce an effort. The

Distinctive Feature

of this Machine is the

ROTARY HOOK

to carry the loop of the upper thread around the spool containing the under, MAKING THE LOCK STITCH ALIKE ON BOTH SIDES OF FABRIC, thereby doing away with the vibratory motion of the shuttle, the tension upon the under thread, and all devices for taking up slack thread, necessary on all other two-thread machines. The public have endorsed these principles by purchasing 50,000 of our Machines.

SOLD BY INSTALLMENTS,

183,600 Machines per annum.

Many new machine companies have had their rise and fall—their machines once popular now scarcely known—others have made radical changes in order to exist; while the Howe Machine Company have adhered to the opinion of "Elias Howe, Master of Mechanics" ("The machine is mechanically correct; does not change"), built addition after addition to their factory, and to-day cannot supply the demand, although turning out six hundred machines a day—just a machine a minute.

THE ELIAS HOWE, JT.
Sewing Machines

The Howe Machine Co.

FOR FAMILIES AND MANUFACTURES.

THE GREAT PRIZE:
EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS, 1867.
Awarded over eighty-two competitors

The Highest Premium,

THE ONLY CROSS OF THE LEGION OF HONOR AND GOLD MEDAL,

Given to American Sewing Machines, per Imperial Decree, published in the "Moniteur Universel" (Official Journal of the French Empire), Thursday, 1st July, 1867, in these words:

ELIAS HOWE, JR. { Fabricante de Machines a coudre exposant. Manufacturer of Sewing Machines, Exhibitor.

The Howe Sewing Machines

Are celebrated and known for doing the best work, using a straight and much smaller needle for the same thread than any other machine. They are adapted to any and all kinds of family sewing and manufacturing of every description, from fine lace to patent leather, making a beautiful and perfect Lock Stitch, alike on both sides of the article sewed, and will neither rip nor ravel, and uses less thread.

Every machine is as near perfection as the best machinery in the world can make it. It is the oldest machine and has more improvements, and is nearer perfection than any other machine, the parts being exactly alike. If any of the parts need to be replaced, the operator can replace it, and it will outlast and outwear any machine made. They are remarkably simple and easily learned, sure in their operation, and almost impossible to break or get them out of order. They use any thread directly from the spool. The needle has a perpendicular motion, (absolutely necessary for heavy work,) runs easily, a fast sewer, and almost noiseless. They do not soil the dress of the operator, and do not have to be taken apart to oil and clean. The New Improved Family Machine cannot be surpassed and is without equal, and we CHALLENGE THE WORLD to produce a better machine on points of merit. A Hemmer, Feller, Gatherer, Braider, Quilter, Tucking Guide, and all the other necessary Tools go with each machine, free of charge.

☞Beware of spurious and bogus Howe's. The undersigned is the only authorized Agent for the Genuine Howe Machine.
